

A group of approximately 12 young women, likely members of a National Charity League chapter, are posed in front of a white double door with glass panes. They are arranged in three rows, with some standing in the back, some sitting on a ledge in the middle, and some kneeling or sitting on the floor in the front. They are all wearing white dresses of various styles, including strapless, spaghetti-strap, and lace-trimmed. The setting appears to be an indoor space with a patterned carpet and a potted plant visible on the left side.

National Charity League (NCL) provides mothers and daughters a chance to bond together while investing in the community. Members learn valuable lessons in friendship, dedication, and service that last a lifetime.

"NCL has taught me how blessed I am to live the life that I do and has opened my eyes to a new sense of gratitude for everything that I have," says Rachel Redmon, a senior at Seven Lakes High School and member of the Star Chapter. "Working to positively impact the lives of others fills you with a sense of joy that cannot be attained any other way."

Callie Simnitt, a Cinco Ranch High School senior and also a Star Chapter member, cherishes her volunteer time with her mother and states, "I have whole-heartedly enjoyed every minute I've gotten to spend serving the community with my mom."
